THE WEEK OF INTEGRITY IN ALBANIA

The Week of Integrity in Albania is a national awareness campaign aimed at fostering collective action to emphasize the importance of integrity.

It seeks to promote ethical behavior across all sectors, including business, government, academia, NGOs, and society at large.

By encouraging participation from diverse organizations and individuals, it highlights the shared responsibility of upholding integrity as a core value in every area of life.

The campaign aims to inspire a culture of transparency, accountability, ethical behavior, good governance, and any efforts in the fight against corruption, contributing in this way to a more ethical and trustworthy society.

When does it take place?

The Week of Integrity in Albania takes place every year from 1-10 December.

The Week of Integrity goal isn't confined to just a week in December!

It's a year-round pledge to bring people together around the principle of integrity. Consistent daily actions are essential to make integrity a fundamental part of how every person, organization, and business behaves.

Who can join as partner?

Private and public sectors, educational and civil society institutions, youth organizations, international partners, and anyone dedicated to the issue of integrity.

Organizations that are partners of the Week of Integrity become members of a multi-stakeholder network.

Partners join forces during the Week of Integrity in Albania by organizing their own activities.

Why become a partner?

Promote a Culture of Integrity

Joining as a partner for the Week of Integrity provides a unique opportunity to highlight and enhance the importance of integrity within your organization and the broader community.

Strengthen Your Brand Reputation

Demonstrating a commitment to integrity and ethical practices not only aligns with corporate social responsibility goals but also enhances your brand reputation.

Engage and Inspire Employees

The Week of Integrity offers a platform to engage and inspire your employees by involving them in meaningful discussions and activities centered around ethical behavior and decision-making.

Connect with Like-Minded Organizations

Becoming a partner allows you to connect with other organizations that share a commitment to integrity. This network provides valuable opportunities for collaboration, knowledge sharing, and collective action towards promoting ethical standards across industries. Engaging with peers through shared activities and events enhances the impact of the Week of Integrity and fosters a supportive community of practice.

Enhance Stakeholder Trust

Stakeholders, including investors, customers, and employees, seek assurance that they are associated with an organization that values ethical conduct. Participation in the Week of Integrity signals your commitment to maintaining high ethical standards, thereby building and strengthening stakeholder trust.

Contribute to a Broader Impact

Your efforts contribute to raising awareness and setting benchmarks for ethical behavior, thereby influencing positive change beyond your immediate sphere.

Diverse Activities to Suit Your Organization

There are numerous ways to participate and make an impact during the Week of Integrity. Whether through hosting public events like panel discussions and webinars, conducting internal training sessions and workshops, or running awareness campaigns, there are flexible options to suit your organization's capacity and focus areas. Each activity, regardless of scale, contributes to the overarching goal of promoting integrity.
